Handwritten text in a script, likely Devanagari, on a palm leaf manuscript. The text is arranged in approximately five horizontal lines. The leaf shows signs of age, including discoloration and two prominent circular holes used for binding. The script is dense and cursive, typical of traditional Indian manuscript writing.

Handwritten text in a South Indian script, likely Grantha or Tamil, on aged, stained paper. The text is arranged in approximately five horizontal lines. The script is highly cursive and difficult to decipher due to the condition of the manuscript. There are several large, dark ink blotches and stains throughout the document, particularly in the center and right-hand side, which obscure some of the characters. The paper is discolored and shows signs of significant wear and tear.
